Fast Freight Wrecked.

Fast northbound freight No. 42, was wrecked at Eacunda, a few miles south of Paris yesterday morning. The wreck occurred at the exact spot where five freight cars of coal were derailed about a week ago. The cause of the accident is unknown as the engineer had slow orders over the section of road where the first wreck occurred. Four cars of merchandise were derailed. None of the train crew were injured. The Southbound passenger trains were sent to Lexington and over the C. and O. to Winchester. It was several hours before the wreckage could be cleared up and service resumed.
